

Plank layout will be East to West starting in this room now. I plan starting in this room.

Would you recommend layout be centered between the far North and south walls or just in this room?

I will have to work backwards in here, but I don't see any way around that. Luckily with my type of plank it shouldn't be too difficult.

I just want to avoid a skinny piece up against this slider